FAQ'S

What Are PAYE, UIF, and SDL?

PAYE (Pay As You Earn): A system for collecting income tax from employees' earnings, applicable to all employers registered with SARS. Employers must deduct PAYE from salaries and remit it to SARS, ensuring timely tax collection.

UIF (Unemployment Insurance Fund): Provides short-term relief to employees during unemployment, maternity, adoption leave, or illness. All South African employers must register and contribute to the UIF, with contributions deducted from employees' salaries and matched by the employer.

SDL (Skills Development Levy): A mandatory levy for employers with annual payrolls over R500,000, supporting workforce training via SETAs. This levy promotes skills development, aiding workforce and economic growth.

How is PAYE, UIF, and SDL Calculated?

PAYE is calculated based on the employee's taxable income using the SARS tax tables. The amount varies depending on the employee's earnings.

UIF is calculated as 2% of an employee's monthly remuneration. Both the employee and employer must contribute 1%, limited to the UIF contribution limit. The current limit is R17 712 per month, effective as of 1 June 2021.

SDL is calculated as 1% of the total amount paid in salaries to employees. It is paid to SARS along with the employer's other tax submissions, typically on a monthly basis.
